A Word from the Prez.....

Hello Clown Friends,

What a beautiful day it is today. I'm hoping the 100 plus degree days are gone for this year. I trust none of you were overcome with the heat and took all the right precautions out there this summer.

I received a copy of an article that was sent to the Dallas Magic Club for their newsletter. The young man that wrote this article was spending the summer in Dallas, but attends A&M. Clay came to the TCA Convention for one day and was bitten by the clown bug. I want to tell you some things he had to say about TCA Clowns. "Never before have I seen such a congenial bunch of strangers-everybody was wearing a smile and no limits were placed on the lengths to which one could go for a laugh. A mere mention that I was new to clowning resulted in a swarm of advice - who to talk to, what to read, how to grow. A clown is not a person in makeup or costume. A clown is an attitude, a persona, a willingness to give in to our innate, childlike curiosity. These folks are normal, ordinary people who, each day, venture out into the world to make it a bit brighter using little more than a red nose and an immutable can-do spirit." I could not have said it any better myself. You TCA Clowns should be proud of yourselves, our organization and what we do to make this world a brighter place one smile at a time.

CLOWN CONVENTION REVIEW

By Clay Dippel

I recently had the distinct pleasure of attending the Texas Clown Association's annual convention in Irving, and boy, do these guys know how to leave an impression! Having been a circus enthusiast for many years, I figured now was as good a time as any to jump headfirst into a new venture - clowning. Among vendors touting colorful wigs, greasepaint, balloons, spongeballs, and couture clown footwear, entertainers of all ages gathered at the Westin Hotel for five days of sharing the latest ideas in the world of funny business.

At first glance this was a group of normal, middle aged conference goers; your standard garden variety convention attendees wearing their ID badges and toting their program packets. A second look however unveiled hints of a less orthodox crowd - balloon headbands, unusually fluorescent hair, and the occasional unicycle. Never before have I seen such a congenial bunch of strangers - everybody was wearing a smile and no limits were placed on the lengths to which one could go for a laugh.

All weekend my inner 5-year-old went nuts. Whether I was getting a lesson from Ringling Bros. veterans on how to design a custom clown face or learning how to walk a tightrope of dental floss using nothing more than a can-do attitude, it was obvious that smiles were contagious. I mean, there aren't many places where you can pose for a photo in a life-sized balloon dragster.

The organizers, Mid-Cities Clown Alley, did a fantastic job of booking lectures covering a wide range of topics. Classes included tutorials on face design and application, costume design, puppetry, juggling, magic for clowns, character development and improve, miming and physical comedy, balloon twisting, specific venue strategy, and crowd control. Competitions were held in areas from balloon twisting to makeup design, and the coordinators left no time for dull moments.

I was surprised to find that majority of the clowns in attendance were middle aged or older. A mere mention that I was new to clowning resulted in a swarm of advice - who to talk to, what to read, how to grow. Clown Allies, as it turns out, have suffered in membership in recent years and are looking for new blood. What has traditionally been an exclusive institution has felt the effects of a generation growing up on television comedies and internet humor rife with pop culture representations of clowns as grotesque or undignified.

"Clowns are not scary..." says clown makeup expert and entertainer J.T. 'Bubba' Sikes, "...the world is scary. We aren't afraid of clowns because of their makeup; we are afraid because we don't know who is behind the mask. But, when you're a good clown, you become your true self through your character. Honesty is something we can all sense, and an honest clown can make us laugh at just about anything. And if there's something we need desperately in today's world its more laughter."

A clown is not a person in makeup or costume. A clown is an attitude, a persona; a willingness to give in to our innate, childlike curiosity. Nothing illustrated this point better than a performance given by performer and lecturer Jackie "Lollibells" Garner. In the piece, Jackie came on stage bearing no semblance to a clown and carrying no props other than a stool and a microphone. Beginning out of character, Mrs. Garner announced that her alter ego, Lollibells, might have something to say. Instantly, a split personality style rant ensued, stirring an entire audience of professional entertainers to tears of laughter. Jackie was able to garner a standing ovation with an endearing and highly entertaining routine using nothing more than her voice, her wit, and her charm. The clown was not in her appearance, but in her presentation - her ability to bond with her audience.

As magicians we are often quick to assume that the effects we present act as the measures of our quality as performers. Being around these clowns all week, however, reminded me that the real assessment of our ability as entertainers is the strength of that connection between the performer and the spectator - our ability to form a relationship with our audience to leave them with a lasting impression.

Confetti and oversized clothing aside, these folks are normal, ordinary people who, each day, venture out into the world to make it a bit brighter using little more than a red nose and an immutable can-do spirit. All of the technical knowledge gained from the various workshops aside, I appreciate most the reminder that it's ok to laugh at yourself every once in a while. My advice? Take a lesson from the clowns - stand in their oversized shoes. They all share the same, simple sentiment: The world needs more laughter.

And really, who can argue with logic like that?

YOUR 2011 TCA AMBASSADOR OF CLOWNING

At the recent TCA Convention June "Cricket" Hinkle was named the 2011 TCA Ambassador of Clowning.

June has been clowning for over 20 years and over those years has had numerous gigs and she was especially supportive of Boys & Girls Country in Montgomery County Texas. She is a member of Cheerful Clown Alley and was also a member of the Montgomery County Clown Alley (while it was active) as well as COAI and TCA. She has served on the board of directors of Cheerful and TCA, even accepting board appointments to serve as the TCA area representative for the Panhandle region. She is a recipient of the Whispers Award by Cheerful Clown Alley (the highest member award presented by that alley) for exemplifying the art of clowning and her dedication and involvement to the alley.

June regularly attends the annual COAI conventions and was named a COAI Ambassador. And she has been to nearly every TCA Convention since she began clowning. She regularly competes in skits and paradeability and performance categories and she has won numerous awards. She has participated in the TCA Buddy program for several years. And has been on staff or assisted with the Cheerful clown school for many many years.

June is a true VOLUNTEER and gives her time as a delegate for the Texas Annual Conference of United Methodists, the children's and adults at her church with faith fantasies ministries, working at the "Hand Me Up" resale shop for her church and serving as an instructor each year for vacation bible school. She serves as an election judge at her polling precinct and also collects canned goods monthly at the Cheerful meetings for the Montgomery County Battered Women's Shelter and spends time with other Cheerful clowns packing cookies at The Center.

June has a very big and giving heart and just this year opened her home to two Cheerful members for after-surgery recovery.

Year after year she has demonstrated the true heart of a clown and is a most deserving recipient for this prestigious award.

June loves nothing more than a good TRUE story, unless perhaps it is a man in uniform - and that's the TRUTH!

Congratulations "Cricket"! Keep up the good work!
